

Exploring the Dark Side of the Moon The History of Economics in the Global South Webinar series

Organized by Rebeca Gomez Betancourt, Sattwick Dey Biswas,
Fabio Masini, and Alexandre Reichart

With the support of the Institute of New Economic Thinking's Young Scholars Initiative and Globalisation and Economy in a long-term perspective, we are hosting a series of webinars that bring together historians of economic thought from around the world who work on the History of economics of the Global South.

October 17, 2 pm CET, 9 am GMT

Leonardo de Vio (University Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne), Alexandre Reichart (Renmin University of China) and Wenjie Zhang (Renmin University of China)

'From the Legalist School to Kautilya's Arthashastra: the Birth of the Traditions promoting State Intervention into the Economies of China and India'

Bryan Kauma (Southwestern University, Georgetown, US)

"Critical but stable": Agricultural propaganda, Politics and Hunger in Zimbabwe

November 14, 2 pm CET, 9 am GMT

Ajax Kumar Mishra (L.N. Mithila University, Darbhanga, India)

Historicism of the Social Sciences: Implications for Economic Study

Matilde Ciolli (University of Milan, Italy)

The War for the Free Market. Neoliberalism and Authoritarian Violence in Guatemala (1954-83)

Jérôme Lange (Wits University, Johannesburg)

Searching for the History of African Economic Thought

November 28, 2 pm CET, 9 am GMT

Juan Odisio (CONICET, Mexico), Florencia Sember (University of Milan, Italy)

Keynes Travels South

Celeste Viedma (University of Buenos Aires, Argentina)

The Rebel Scientist: An Introduction to Oscar Varsavsky's Economic Thought

Vittorio Caligiuri (Tuscia University, Italy)

From Liberation to Development: Economic Thought in the Post-Colonial Maghreb